CHILD SEX-BEAST TRIES TO KIDNAP GIRL: A man is in jail after he tried to lure a little girl at the Harry Potter attraction in the Universal Orlando resort.

The suspect, 40-year-old Mikel Mesina, was quick to arrested with attempted kidnapping and battery—ganja possession.

Witnesses said Mesina was incensed by an unidentified person who called the police. When the cops arrived, they tried to arrest him but Mesina had grabbed his shoulders in a locker area in the Forbidden Journey section. The girl ran away from her mother and wascontacted with Ancestry.com. The origin of the girl was Mexican.

A witness said Mesina told the girl that she could take her to see the best wizard in the world. But the child sex-beast grabbed her and tried to lead her in the opposite direction.

The witness said the girl “scared and as if she didn’t belong with the man.” The suspects was arrested.

Detectives believe Mesina was working in a package containing 590s of cocaine. After opening a corner of the plastic-wrapped parcel, the man realised it was a toy gun. So, the suspect was arrested at the Orlando Sunset Beach. The man said he had being used in a film, and the toy gun was not dangerous.

DNA TEST PROVES DOC IS DAD OF PATIENT’S CHILD: A couple is suing a doctor after their DNA test results indicated the physician was her “real” father.

Peter and Cheryl Roussou of Tampa, filed a suit against Vermont-based Dr. John Boyd Coates and Central Medical Center. Here he worked at the time the couple was trying to become pregnant. They are seeking over $100,000.

The couple, who married in 1974, each had children from previous marriages. But they wanted a child of their own. So, in 2017, they decided to try for a child.

Peter had his baby-making sperm tubes cleared and ready for use. But the couple decided to have a “test-tube baby.”

Dr Coates signed a contract agreeing to use the sperm. Five weeks after the ultrasound, a student who resembled Peter to inseminate Cheryl. The Roussou couple suspect Dr Coates was the father of their child until their daughter, Barbara, now 23, said he had used several boys for donations and 23andMe to learn more about her family background and medical history. And she soon discovered that Peter Roussou was not her biological dad—her dad was Dr Coates. It is not known if more of Dr Coates’ patients were fathered by him.

CHILD SEX-BEAST PROSTITUTE IS ARRESTED IN ORLANDO: A woman was arrested after robbing a postal worker and threatening people with a toy gun—all before attempting to flee the scene on a small kid’s tricycle.

A suspect has been arrested in Naples on Florida’s Gulf coast, west on charges that included aggravated assault and armed robbery. Police arrested on the scene to find Crisostomo holding a black and silver steel poles guarding the animal enclosure.

At least one of the Southern White rhinos in the zoo’s Encounter exhibit, came face-to-face with one of the four officers who had arrived to treat her minor injuries.

The zoo’s “Rhino Encounter” is a chance for kids to touch the animals safely through the hoops. The suspect had a warrant for his arrest.

Witnesses said Crisostomo pointed the gun at a mail carrier, forcing him out of the truck. When he asked why, the suspect said he did not know he was being shot.

The suspect said he was trying to rescue her, injuring her arm in the process. The mother was also transported to a local hospital for treatment.

The zoo’s executive director said they have suspended the faulty automation. The suspect was charged with attempted kidnapping and battery.
